R*evolutionary Learning* explores the Marxist and feminist theorisation of dialectics, praxis and consciousness in education and learning. Moving beyond previous books on Marxism and education, this groundbreaking text explores the core philosophical concepts that build a Marxist analysis of learning, extending its critique with significant implications for critical education scholarship, research and practice by drawing upon work by feminist, anti-racist and anti-colonial scholars.

The authors reconsider the contributions of Marx, Gramsci and Freire to educational theory from a feminist perspective, moving Marxist analysis of education into a more complex relation to patriarchal and imperialist capitalism.

Revolutionary Learning's importance lies not only in its contribution to theory, but its extension into pedagogical practice with attention to how a revolutionary critique of ideology is taken up by educators in their daily work.

Sara Carpenter is an assistant professor in Educational Policy Studies at the University of Alberta. She is co-editor of Educating from Marx: Race, Gender, and Learning (Palgrave MacMillan, 2010).

Shahrzad Mojab is a scholar, teacher and activist. She is professor of Adult Education and Women's Studies at OISE/University of Toronto, and the editor of Marxism and Feminism (Zed, 2015), War, Violence, and Learning (Routledge, 2012).

'A tremendously insightful, compelling book which promises to revolutionize thinking around adult learning and education'

Aziz Choudry, Associate Professor, Department of Integrated Studies in Education, McGill University
