

Seminar Series 2015-16

November 3, 2015, 13:00–17:00 at the University of Glasgow, Sir Alwyn Williams Building, Level 5

The Urban Big Data Centre in partnership with the CR&DALL seminar series, are pleased to announce a free half-day conference on Tuesday, 3rd November from 1300-1700:

Wellbeing and learning for a better life: Reflecting across cultures and contexts

The keynote talk will be given by Prof. Anna Robinson-Pant, University of East Anglia, alongside talks by Dr. Catherine Lido (UBDC's integrated Multimedia City Data project) and Prof. Tess Kay, Brunel University, presenting the work of the What Works Centre for Wellbeing. Full agenda and details are available on the Eventbrite Registration Page.

The conference is aimed at academics and practitioners alike (e.g. teachers of adults and health practitioners), and others with a particular interest in wellbeing and learning research (internationally and across urban and rural contexts). This conference might particularly interest those involved with adult learners and work-based learning, as well as those interested in novel approaches to examining lifelong learning implications for happy, healthy, employed and engaged learner-citizens. Places are limited and registration is required via Eventbrite.

AGENDA

13:00 - 13:45 Lunch

13:45 - 14:00 Opening remarks, Prof. Mike Osborne (Moderator)

14:00 - 14:30 Dr. Catherine Lido, The integrated Multimedia City Data Project: Implications for learning and well-being in the city, Urban Big Data Centre, University of Glasgow

14:30 - 15:30 Learning for a better life: reflecting across cultures; Prof. Anna Robinson-Pant, University of East Anglia

15:30 - 16:00 Prof. Tess Kay, Brunel University, What Works Centre for Wellbeing

16:00 - 16:30/16:45 Parallel Breakout Sessions

- Consultation with well-being practitioners and those with a vested interest into wellbeing research (scoping exercise for an ESRC-funded project) (until 16:45 in UBDC Conference Room)
- Operationalising Urban Indicators and Learning City features for well-being (until 16:30 at Sir Alwyn Williams building)

16:45 - 17:00 Closing remarks, Prof. Mike Osborne (Moderator)