

Goethe University Frankfurt and Eberhard-Karls-University Tübingen advertise

12 posts for phd students
(E13, part time, 65%) and

1 post for a postdoc researcher
(E13, full time)

in the framework of the Research Training Centre „Doing Transitions“ funded by the Deutsche Forschungsgemeinschaft (DFG). The Centre will start on 1st of January 2017.

Posts for phd students have a duration of 3 years, 6 will be located in Frankfurt and in Tübingen respectively. The post for a postdoc researcher has a duration of 4,5 years and is located both in Frankfurt and in Tübingen.

The research centre investigates how transitions in the life course are shaped and produced on different societal levels. It combines the disciplinary perspectives of educational science, sociology, psychology and related social sciences. A more detailed description of the research programme and guidelines for applications can be found under www.doingtransitions.org.

The universities are committed to equal opportunities of men and women and therefore invite and encourage women to apply. The centre offers a variety of support for reconciling work and family. Applicants with impairments are prioritised in case of equal qualification.

The limitation of contracts are in line with the Wissenschaftszeitvertragsgesetz which regulates the employment of junior researchers in science and research.

Please, send your applications by email (possibly in a single PDF file) to doingtransitions@uni-frankfurt.de until 31.08.2016.
